ST. LOUIS HAWKS

(see Page One)

BEN KERNER

The story of the St. Louis Hawks and the club's Cinderella climb to the summitt as one of the sports' worlds' finest franchises revolves around Ben Kerner, and his grim determination to "make a go" of a situation that had been described countless times as virtually hopeless.

The story of Kerner and his Hawks started back in his home town of Buffalo, N.Y. A Canisius College and University of Buffalo alumnus, he founded a profitable sports advertising and promotion firm in the early 19'0's. He entered servicein 1942, and by the time he came out, a business associate, Leo Ferris, had acquired a franchise in the old National League. Seldom has a man, roped into an investment of something in which he had little interest, worked as hard as Kerner did the next 10 years - from Buffalo to the Tri-Cities (Moline and Rock Island in Illinois and Davenport, in Iowa) to Milwaukee where the end was evident when the Braves took the town and territory by storm.

Ferris long since had departed, having sold his end to Kerner. And bitten deeply by the basketball bug, Kerner had battled major cities in the pro basketball war. He had outlasted many, including St. Louis, Chicago, Detroit, Pittsburgh and Toronto - but a terrific price to personal pride. His Hawks finished fourth in his division four straight times, in the merged National Basketball Association due mainly to his being forced to sell whatever star players he developed, to stay in business.

Kerner was in basketball 10 years and had lost $108,000, without ever drawing a cent in salary, when the end appeared near in Milwaukee at the end of the 1955 season. This was due partly to a lack of basketball interest...and partly due to the great popularity of the Braves.

After visiting several other cities, Kerner decided to move the team to St. Louis, despite the please of various sports officials and newspapermen throughout the country who pointed out to him that this city had already lost one pro basketball team - the Bombers; a major league baseball club, the Browns, and a hockey team, the Flyers.

"I made up my mind to come to St. Louis," Kerner remembers, "since there had been newspaper interest here and we did draw around 8,000 people that previous February when we played here, despite competition from the opening of Cinerama and some other functions. And the game was played on Ash Wednesday, too."

The rest is sports history. By astute trading (he acquired Cliff Hagan, Ed Macauley, Jack Coleman, Jack McMahon, Slater Martin, Clyde Lovellette, Sihugo Green, John McCarthy, Dave Piontek, Larry Foust, Joe Graboski and Woody Sauldsberry in deals) the Hawks finally came through for their "bossman" in 1958, winning the World's Championship by defeating Boston, four games to two, in the final playoffs. They had come close the previous year, before losing four games to three to the Celtics, with the last game a double-overtime 125-123 thriller that has been called the greatest basketball game ever played.

Back in his early days in the sport, coaches were expendable and in Milwaukee alone he had three - Doxie Moore, Andrew (Fuzzy) Levane and William (Red) Holzman. Even in St. Louis he has had six - Holzman, Slater Martin,(who asked to be replaced since he felt he was more valuable to the club as a player), Alex Hannum, Andy Phillip, Ed Macauley and now Paul Seymour. It is typical of Kerner that he helped acquire jobs for men who at one time coached for him. Levane was head coach of the New York Knicks, helped into that post by Kerner's insistence on going to bat for him. Holzman is now chief scout and assistant coach of the Knicks. Hannum is now coach of Syracuse. In fact, Kerner once gave Arnold (Red) Auerbach, his coach at Tri-Cities, to Boston when the Celts pleaded "that they need a big name" to help them establish the sport in that city.

When he came to St. Louis, Kerner immediately found that all of his advisors were wrong. All this area needed was someone to present a good representative team, and be willing to work to put their particular product over.

An astute promoter, Kerner instituted a summer clinic program for youngsters employing Hawks' players as instructors. The clinics are staged throughout the Illinois and Missouri area and have attracted more than 325,000 youngsters the past four years.

Two years ago, Kerner presented a series of clinics and fashion shows for women, one at the fashionable Sheraton-Jefferson Hotel in St. Louis, and another at Kiel Auditorium. This was in keeping with his policy of interesting the female fans in the Hawks. He started the women's clinics three years ago, and they have been immensely successful

A pioneer in presenting added attractions at his games, Kerner has featured some of the nation's top entertainers on the Hawks' "Bandstand" each season. Some of the top names have included Duke Ellington, Count Basie, Lionel Hampton, Louis Armstrong, Sammy Kaye, Harry James, Billy Williams, the Four Freshmen, George Shearing, the Crew Cuts, the Dukes of Dixieland, and the Glenn Miller orch. This year, Stan Kenton and his orch; Guy Lombardo and his orch. and the St. Louis Symphony will be added to the illustrious list.

Famous circus clown, Emmett Kelly, was once presented to the youngsters each Sunday afternoon, when the small fry can attend the Hawks' games at a special low price.

When the Hawks' first came to St. Louis, basketball interest was dormant to a degree and Kerner established a speaker's bureau which offered team players and officials to organizations all over the area. Today, films of the Hawks games are available to any club or organization requesting them. And more than 400 personal appearances are made each year by members of the club and the team's front office.

Three years ago, when he realized new seats and a better floor arrangement were needed at Kiel Auditorium, he advanced the City of St. Louis $35,000 so that the new setup could be secured quickly.

Then he purchased a $2500 scoreboard and presented it to the city as a gift.

Two years ago, he had the Fred Medart Co. of St. Louis design special baskets, operated on a hydralic lift, for use at Kiel. These were the first to be installed anywhere in the world. These were given to the city for use at Kiel.

This year, he is advancin the City the money to purchase a new floor at Kiel. And last year, when the Hawks played five games at the Arena (they have four plus the All-Star game scheduled there this year), and foiled in his attempt to get Elgin Baylor from the now Los Angeles Lakers (he offered $200,000), he bought the "floor he played on", He gave the Lakers $12,500 for their court, which had been purchased the year before for use at Minneapolis.

Pro basketball in the past 16 years has changed from a game of unknown quality to where, today, it is now one of the most popular of the major sports. Through the medium of television, more than 15,000,000 people will watch NBA clubs on network television each week.

Kerner has long been one of the pioneers of this medium. In fact, the Hawks were the first team to televise road games back to their home city. This year, the Hawks will once again televise 15 away games back to St. Louis.

Kerner's radio program is also one of the most lavish in sports, and the most extensive of any NBA club. All of the Hawks pre-season, regular season and playoff games are broadcast, live and direct. And the NBA All-Star game is always broadcast back to St. Louis for Hawks' fans.

And a number of weekly radio shows are also presented throughout the year featuring some of the Hawks' top stars.

Pro basketball has become Kerner's entire life. One has only to watch him at a game to really appreciate the intensity of his feelings. Well-respected by newspapermen all over the country, he enjoys the best press of any mogul in the sports world. And that respect continues to his players. Many of his top stars have exclaimed "that they would rather retire than play for another owner."

Kerner shuns the limelight. In fact, he has turned down countless honors rather than to have to accept them publically, explaining "that they come to see my ballclub, not me."

Basketball is a constant challenge to him - a seven-day-a-week, 365-day-a-year position. This is best illustrated by an incident that happendd after the Hawks won the world championship. The post-game celebration ended in the wee hours of the Sunday morning, yet when a local newspaper sent a photographer to the Hawks' offices at 9 A.M. the next morning, a Sunday when the majority of St. Louis residents were probably sleeping, there was Kerner busy at work. "What happened last night is over with," he explained. "Today starts a new season."

Obviously, Kerner is not one to rest on yesterday's achievements.

HISTORY OF THE ST. LOUIS HAWKS

The rise of the St. Louis Hawks to prominence in the National Basketball Association is a success story that rates second to none in the annals of sports. Unwanted after four years in Milwaukee, the Hawks were moved to St. Louis in May of 1955, entering a city that had already lost one NBA franchise, the St. Louis Bombers; a baseball club, the Browns; and a hockey team, the Flyers.

In six seasons, the Hawks have won one world championship, five consecutive Western Division titles, and one runner-up spot, having finished second in 1955-56 (first season in St. Louis). The result has been the best franchise in pro basketball.

Owned by one of the game's pioneers, Ben Kerner, a former Buffalo, New York, advertising man who gave up several lucrative businesses to remain in pro basketball; the Hawks were first located at the Tri-Cities (Rockford, Moline, and Davenport, Illinois). The first move was to Milwaukee for the 1951-52 season, then four years later Kerner brought the Hawks to St. Louis.

Several key trades and some astute drafting helped the Hawks as they emerged with one of the game's top players in Bob Pettit and a supporting cast of top stars that figure to continue to dominate the Western Division for some time. The Hawks ended the 1956-57 race in a three-way tie, then downed Fort Wayne first and Minneapolis next to claim the outright crown. They swept past the Western Division playoffs, but lost to Boston in the seventh game of the final series--a double-overtime contest played in Boston, 125-123. This game has been called the greatest in the history of basketball, pro or college.

In 1957-58 the Hawks soared to the world championship, defeating Boston four games to two, after taking the Western Division race by eight full games. Three years ago they repeated in the West, this time by a 16-game margin which is the widest in league history. The Hawks lost to Minneapolis in the Western Division playoff finals, with the final two games ending in one-point and two-point triumphs for the Lakers. An injury to Slater Martin, veteran guard, in the second quarter of the first game of this series may have had much to do with the final outcome. The Hawks' two victories revealed wide and convincing margins of 30 and 34 points.

Two years ago the Hawks again won the divisional chase by 16 games. After upending Minneapolis in the Western finals (4 games to 3), the Hawks lost to the Celtics in another tight seven-game series to decide the world titlist.

Last season the Hawks posted a record of 51 wins and 28 defeats, giving them a 15-game advantage over second play Los Angeles. Then the Hawks lost to Boston in the world series of basketball, four games to two.

William (Red) Holzman, now assistant coach of New York, coached the Hawks for the first year and a half in St. Louis, then Slater Martin took over for the next eight games of the 1956-57 campaign. Alex Hannum replaced Martin and finished that year, then Hannum won the Hawks' first and only world crown in 1957-58. Andy Phillip coached the first 10 games of the 1958-59 slate, giving way to Ed Macauley, who coached the club until the end of the 1959-60 season. Paul Seymour now starts his second year as head mentor, having completed the first leg of a three-year contract.

Some of the former stars who have played for the Hawks through the years: Jack Coleman, Frank Brian, Mel Hutchins, Jack Nichols, Max Zaslofsky, Macauley and Martin.

OBTAINED IN TRADES (7) - Cliff Hagah, Clyde Lovellette, Sihugo Green, John McCarthy, Larry Foust, Woody Sauldsberry, and Joe Graboski.

THE HAWKS RADIO-TV TEAM - BUDDY BLATTNER and JERRY GROSS

ROBERT G. (BUDDY) BLATTNER, who has broadcast more National Basketball Association games than any other announcer - 550 - will be starting his seventh campaign this season. The Voice of the Hawks was a major league baseball player, breaking in with the New York Giants in 1946, and as the lead-off man, batted .255 and drove in 95 runs in 126 games, splitting duties at first and second base. After three years with the Giants, he culminated his major league career in 1949 with the Philadelphia Phillies.

Following his baseball career, Blattner broadcast the St. Louis Browns games for three and a half years. He then switched to the radio Game-Of-The-Day series. In 1954, he was seen on the TV Game-Of-The-Week series, helping to make this feature one of the top-rated sports programs in the history of television.

He has been the host of "The Baseball Corner", on ABC, and sundry other newtowrk shows and did several pre-game World Series shows in recent years. Last summer, he broadcast the Japanese All-Star game back to the United States via ABC-TV, as part of that newtork's Wide World of Sports feature.

At the ripe age of 13, he won the Missouri State Table Tennis titl winning it three years in succession. Then, at 15, he went on to win the world's title at Prague, Czechoslavakia, repeating the next year in Austria.

He also won the Missouri State High School tennis title three straight years and copped the Mid-West Junior Davis Cup twice emerging undefeated through four years of high school play.

Nationally-recognized as the finest basketball announcer in the business, he got his start in radio while in service, broadcasting play-by-play of service games for the Armed Forces Radio Service after an illness forced him out of a tennis exhibition he was making with Bobby Riggs and Don Budge.

He is married to his high school sweetheart, Barbara Friemuth and they have three daughters, Barbara Lynne, Deborah Anne and Donna Jean.

Blattner handles the play-by-play on the St. Louis baseball Cardinals TV games during the summer.

JERRY GROSS, who came to St. Louis a year ago with a background of sports announcing in the East, will handle the color on radio and TV again this year. Like Blattner, he prefaced his broadcasting career with a history of active participation in sports. He was a basketball and baseball star at Middlebury (Vt.) College and later played professional baseball. In service, as an infantry captain, he doubled in brass as a unit athletid director, baseball manager and official. As an announcer, Gross has done play-by-play of baseball, basketball football and bockey. He is married to the former Gretchen Olson, and they have one son, Jeffrey.

COACH PAUL SEYMOUR

One of the all-time greats of pro basketball, the 33-year-old Seymour will be starting his second season as coach of the Hawks, on the second leg of a three-year contract. Born in Toledo, Ohio on Jan. 30, 1928, he now lives in Liverpool (Syracuse) N.Y. He has been associated with pro basketball since 1946, when he left college (Toledo U.) to join the Toledo Jeeps of the old National League as a 17-year-old. When Toledo folded that year, he went to New Orleans of the United States League, a move that he claims aided that club's collapse. He played 22 games with Baltimore in 1947-48, then was sold to Syracuse where he stayed for 13 years before coming to the Hawks last year. At Woodward High School in his home town of Toledo, he was a star basketball, football and track star, winning honorable mention in basketball as an All-State selectee. He played one year of collegiate basketball and won All-Ohio honors. After high school, he tried his hand at professional baseball playing with Elmira in the New York-Penn League as an outfielder. The Browns owned the franchise at that time. A power-hitter, he eventually gave up baseball to concentrate on the court sport. He still is active in athletics, and is regarded as one of the finest softball pitchers in the country. Last August, he shutout the famous King and his Court, one of the top softball clubs in the country, before 6200 fans in Syracuse's MacArthur Stadium.

Seymour was sold to Syracuse for one dollar which must have made him the best purchase, dollar-wise, in pro basketball history. His active career came to a halt two years ago but he actually went to the bench in 1958-59 when he was injured in Detroit during the sixth week of the season. He sat out the rest of the season after seeing action in 21 games. He compiled an enviable court record and was a perennial Iron Man until his knee injury cut short his career. He was named Coach of the Nationals in 1956, replacing Al Cervi and he guided the club to second place that year winning 34 and lost 26, after taking over. They finished second again in 1957-58 and third in both 1958-59 and 1959-60. Last year, he won the division title with the Hawks, lost to Boston in the final playoffs, and piloted the West to a victory over the East in the annual All-Star game. Including a 51-28 record last year, Seymour has a coaching record of 206 wins and 153 losses during the regular season and 15 wins against 18 losses in the playoffs.

As a player, Seymour participated in 708 games in 12 seasons with alifetime field goal mark of .350 on 2231 goals in 5828 attempts and a .786 free throw percentile on 1884 conversions in 2396 tries. He had 1693 rebounds and was credited with 2343 assists to rank seventh among the league's all-time guards in this department. He had his best offensive year in 1954-55 when he scored 1050 points in 72 games for a 14.6 mark. In a four-year period from 1952 to 1956 he averaged close to 14 points a game. But despite his scoring prowess, he was best noted for his leech-like defense and his steady, if not, brilliant floor play.

He was named to the NBA Eastern Division All-Star team for the annual All-Star game, in 1953, 1954 and 1955 and was chosen to a second team berth on the NBA's All-League team in 1954 and 1955. He is married to the former Doris Hansen and they have two children, Shawn, age nine, and Paul Jr., age six.

Last yearrwas the finest in Pettit's illustrious career as he led the Hawks to a fifth straight Western Division title...Bob set career marks for himself in eight departments: Games played (76); minutes played (3027); field goal attempts (1720); field goals scored (769); field goal percentagg (.447); rebounds (1540); assists (262); and total points scored (2120)...He averaged 27.9 points a game, and finished 4th in total points behind Wilt Chamberlain (3033); Elgin Baylor (2538); and Oscar Robertson (2165)...Bob was third in rebounding to Chamberlain (2149 for 27.2 avg.) and Bill Russell (1868 for 23.9 avg.)...Bob had a 20.3 mark in retrieves...He also set a new personal scoring mark in the playoffs, getting 343 points in 12 games for a 29.4 clip.. He was named to the first All-NBA team for the seventh straight year, and played in the annual East-West All-Star game, also for the seventh year in a row...Bob has won the NBA's Most Valuable Player award twice, in 1956 and 1959...He led the Hawks last season in all but four departments: field goal accuracy, free throw percentage, assists, and personal fouls committed...He missed only three of the Hawks' 79 regular season games...Bob upped his career total to 12,896 points to rank 4th among active players in the NBA today...Dolph Schayes of Syracuse leads with 17,666 points in 913 games for a 19.3 career average; Boston's Bob Cousy is runner-up with 14,777 in 766 games for a 19.3 avg.; and Paul Arizin of Philadelphia is third at 14,560 in 635 games for 23.0 per contest...Bob's 12,896-point output was reached in 505 games, giv- him a 25.5 mark through seven years...Schayes has played 13 seasons, Cousy 11 and Arizin, nine...Bob set a new league scoring mark--2,105 pts. in 1958-59--but it was then eclipsed by Chamberlain...That was Pettit's second scoring crown, having won his first in 1955-56 with a figure of 1,849 points...Bob originally had cracked the league mark set by George Yardley...At one time or another, Pettit held NBA marks for most points in a single season, most field goal and most free throw attempts, most field goals and most free throws made, most rebounds (all of these in a single season), and highest average per game...He came to the Hawks in 1954 as the club's first draft choice...He won All-America honors the previous two years at LSU where he is still regarded as the greatest player, not only in the school's history, but in the annals of Louisiana basketball...He failed to make his high school team as a freshman and sophomore, then blossomed into a star as a result of personal diligence, spending almost every available hour practicing, even by searchlight, on a basket setup in his backyard... He led Baton Rouge High to a pair of scholastic state titles, then passed up some 40 college offers to remain at home and attend LSU...In his college days he scored more points (2,002) than any other Southeast Conference player, at that time...He set four SEC scoring records: 1--464 pts. in 14 league games, 2--tallied 170 field goals in 1 season, & set a single high of 57 points (4) scored 23 fieldgoals in a single game (both marks against Georgia)...He scored 612 points in 24 games as a shphmore; 573 in 27 games as a junior and 817 in 26 as a senior. ..the later earning him a per-game % of 31.4...Made All-State and All-American in high school...Bob won Most Valuable Player honors in three of the seven All-Star games he has appeared...1956 at Rochester... 1958, at St. Louis and 1959, at Detroit sharing it with Baylor...He was Rookie of the Year in his first season (1954-55), also making the All-Star first team, an honor shared by only four other pros, Baylor, Chamberlain, Alex Grozaand Oscar Robertson...If it were not for two wrist injuries, Feb. 15, 1957, and Dec. 26, 1957, Pettit would have won scoring titles for the 1956-57 and 1957-58 seasons... He has missed only nine games in seven years and played part two of the above-mentioned injury-riddled campaigns with his left hand in a cast...Bob has won four monthly Hickok Pro Athlete of the Month awards ....Jan. 1958, March 1957, April, 1958, and Jan. 1959, more than any other pro athlete...His high-game as a pro came last Feb. 18 in Detroit against the Pistons when he scored 57 points in a winning effort ...His high mark as a collegian was 60, tallied against Louisiana College...Greatest game was against Boston in the final game of the 1958 playoffs, won by the Hawks, when he scored 52 markers including 19 of the Hawks' 21 points...Holds most team marks and holds arena marks in Detroit, Fort Wayne, Milwaukee and Rochester in addition to Kiel and the Arena...Hawks player representative and team captain... Bob is one of sports' most eligible bachelors...He has an insurance business in Baton Rouge...and varied other interests in a home development company, a territorial distribution company (trampolines, and sports equipment) and owns several large apartment projects in Baton Rouge...He is an avid water skier and owns his own boat... A devotee of western and country music...Earned tag og Big Blue early in pro career which refers to a blue overcoat he formerly used on long road trips...The coat has since been retired...Great clutch player...Premier member of the UnMatchables, the Hawks' great front court trio of Bob, Cliff Hagan and Clyde Lovellette who have accounted for 15,373 points the three years they have operated as a team... Breaking this figure down, it indicates a per-game total of around 70 points a game...He expects to play at least five more years of pro basketball which is good news to Hawks' fans...Bob is a member of the Rawlings Sporting Goods advisary staff...In fact, that company's best-selling basketball is the Dixie Dandy Bob Pettit model....Bob has his own summer camp in New Hampshire...

CLIFF HAGAN

AGE: 29 Lil' Abner
HGT: 6-4
WGT: 215
BORN: Owensboro, Kentucky on December 9, 1931
Residing: Florissant (St. Louis) Missouri
College: University of Kentucky - 1949 to 1954

Cliff continued his fine all-around play last season, scoring 1705 points in 78 games for a 21.8 mark, good for 12th place in the league... He had a free throw conversion mark of .820, best of his pro career, and was credited with 381 assists, second best on the club, behind John McCarthy, and ninth best in the NBA...He was high in assists among the league's big men...ahead of Elgin Baylor of Los Angeles who had 371... Once again, he teamed up with Bob Pettit and Clyde Lovellette to form the greatest scoring front line in court history...They had 15,274 pts last year for a per-game combine of 71.6...In their three-years together they have scored 15,274 points in 650 games for a 70.2 average...Cliff has a lifetime field goal mark of .447 and a free throw conversion % of .784. And even including his almost non-productive first year, when he averaged 5.5 points a game in 67 encounters, he still sports a 19.4 avg. for 362 games...Cliff came to the Hawks in the now celebrated three-man trade with Boston at the end of the 1955 season, along with Ed Macauley, in exchange for Bill Russell, who was the Hawks' first draft choice in the spring of 1955...He was in the service in the Air Force at the time and at first, the Hawks figured to play him in the back...Despite a tremendous performance in a pre-season tour of Mexico, prior to the 1956 57 season, when he garnered an average of 35.6 points a game in seven South-Of-The Border clashes, he was still considered a guard when the season opened...A back injury, then a leg ailment hindered him as that season progressed...He was very nearly traded to Minneapolis for guard Chuck Mencel...But a break (the break being to Bob Pettit's left wrist on Feb. 15, 1957) gave him his chance to play regularly as a forward and he came on to earn his spurs with a sizzling end-of-the-season burst that saw him average 17 points a game in the post-season playoffs...At 6-4, he's one of the strongest player his size in the loop...Hagan played on the Andrews Air Force base team that won the All-Armed Forces title in 1954-55...He was named to the All-Service club that year... Cliff played on Kentucky's great team of 1954, a club that won 25 in a row, and a NCAA title...His teammates on tha t club were Frank Ramsey, now with Boston, and Lou Tsiropoulous, who once played with the Celts... ..Hagan and Ramsey were co-captains of the Wildcats in 1954...In his senior year - 1953-54 - (he sat out the 1952-53 season), Hagan scored 600 points in 25 games for a 24.0 mark...He made All-American in 1951-52 and missed the next year when the Wildcats were declared ineligible for NCAA and other competition...He grabbed 528 rebounds in his junior year for a collegiate rebounding mark that was later broken by Bill Russell...He also set a school and personal high of 42 points against Tennessee in 1952...In four years of collegiate play, Hagan scored 1745 points in 89 games with an overall shooting mark of .428 and a free thro % of .728...He set a dozen Southeastern Conference marks...Cliff has been chosen to play in four All-Star games and has been named to the NBA All-League second team twice, in 1958 and 1959...Kentucky won 86 of 91 games while Hagan, and Ramsey attended college...He is especially effective on the fast break, a throwback to his Kentucky days, can work the pivot and has developed a fine one-hand jump shot from in and out.

In 1949, he led Owensboro high school to the state hoop title beating Lafayette high school, 64-57, in the final game as he scored 41 points ...A year before he had almost single-handedly eliminated teammate-to-be Frank Ramsey's Madisonville cagers in the first round of the state tourney...Their rivalry became so intense that newspapers kept a daily chart of their scoring...Both were all-state high school selections in 1954 then became roommates at the University...A remarkable feature of his play is his playmaking...He was 10th a year ago in assists in the NBA, and ninth this year...He is affiliated with Adams Dairy Co. in the off-season and runs a boys' camp in New England...He also is athletic director of the Florissant Valley Country Club...He holds a Masters' Degree in Education from Washington U. (St. Louis)...Now a resident of Florissant (St. Louis) wher he purchased a home four years ago...He is married to the former Martha Milton and they have two daughters, Lisa, age five, and Laurie, age 3½....

Large Lawrence

Foust will be starting his second full season with the Hawks having come to the club from the Minneapolis Lakers on Feb. 1, 1960, in exchange for a big bundle of cash plus the rights to rookies Willie Merriweather and Nick Mantis...He has proved to be a valuable addition to the Hawks, adding stature to owner Ben Kerner's reputation as a trader...In his first half-year with the club, he averaged 10.2 points a game on 254 points in 25 encounters, which was coupled with a 623-point total in 47 games for the Lakers (13.3 avg)...Last year, he scored 552 in 68 encounters for a 8.3 avg although he averaged only 17.8 minutes a game...He had a 10.8 mark against Detroit, the only club he averaged better than 20 minutes playing time per game against...Larry rates as the sixth highest active scorer in pro history, with 10,545 points in 760 games...Ahead of him are Dolph Schayes, Bob Cousy, Bob Pettit, Clyde Lovellette and Carl Braun...Two years ago, he suffered a broken hand in the fifth game of the final series against Boston, a series the club might have won if the big fellow had been around for the deciding tilt in Boston...As a high school star at South Catholic High School in Philadelphia, he sparked his team (Pirates) to a City title and won for himself the coveted All-Catholic and All-Scholastic awards in 1945 and 1946...These awards tapped him as the best among the Catholic, public and private schools in the Philly area...Oddly enough, Larry loved track and was a quarter-miler, participating in his school's championship mile relay team...He also threw the discus...Enrolled at Philly's LaSalle College in 1946, he played under Ken Loeffler, former St. Louis Bombers coach, in his senior year...He was the first Philadelphia area collegian to pass the 1,000-point mark in career scoring...He hit 255 as a freshmen, 401 as a sophmore, 453 as a junior and 355 as a senior. In 103 college games in four years, he scored 1,464 points for a 14.2 avg...He was voted All-Philadelphia four straight years and in 1949, he was named to the All-Eastern team selected by the NCAA coaches...In 1949, broke the Convention Hall scoring mark by getting 39 pts vs St. Joseph's...He held LaSalle records for most points in a single season, 455; most career pointers, 1464; and highest seasonal avg, 16.7...No. 1 draft choice of the Chicago Stags in 1950, but when that club withdrew from the NBA before the 1950-51 season, he was claimed by Fort Wayne & played there for seven seasons...Foust has been under 1,000 points in only five seasons; he'll be starting his 12th this fall...Foust has been a member of the All-Star West team five times and an All-League choice twice...Best season was in 1954-55 when he helped FW to their first Western Division crown...He had a .487 field goal % that year, a league mark since broken...Broke into pro ball by scoring basket that gave FW historic 19-18 win over Minneapolis...Majored in sales and marketing in college, and is assistant season ticket director for Hawks in off-season...Best pro game was 37 vs Rochester at Rochester in 1955... Scored 10,000 point Feb. 21, 1960 in IA vs Mpls...Married to the former Joan Kissane, they have four children, Corinne, age 7; Lauren, age 5½; Michael, age 4½ and Andrea, age 14 months...

LEN WILKENS

AGE: 23
HGT: 6-0
WGT: 180
Born: October 28, 1937 in Brooklyn, N.Y.
Residing in Brooklyn, N.Y.
College: Providence College from 1956 to 1960

The Hawks' firstdraft choice in the spring of 1960, Wilkens was the pleasant surprise of last year...The classy backliner set a new Hawks team mark for a guard scoring 890 points in 75 games for a 11.9 mark. ..And he averaged 14.2 points a game in the post-season playoffs... In the final 33 games of the season, Wilkens was over the coveted 10 points a game mark 29 times and in two of the four games he scored less than 10 markers, he saw action for only three and five minutes.. He scored over 20 points 11 times during that streak...In the 33 games when he came into his own, he scored 197 field goals in 438 attempts for a.438 percentile and 134 free throws out of 179 attempts for a .749 mark...His total points were 528 for a 16.0 per game mark...The rest of the year he scored 362 points in his first 42 games for a 8.6 mark....During one period from Feb. 21 to March 1 over seven games, he scored 174 points for a 24.9 mark, getting his pro high of 29 twice during this streak against New York and Cincinnati...He had his best series against Syracuse getting 160 points in 10 games for a 16.0 %.. .He averaged 13 points a game on the road and 10.4 at home...And he had a .444 fg% on the road compared to .395 at home...A spectacular performer, it was his pressure coversion of two free throws that tied the sixth game of the Western Division final series against Los Angel that gave the Hawks a chance to win and eventually go on to the finals vs Boston...He made the two charity tosses with only seconds remaining...The possessor of an exceptionally fast pair of hands, he was noted for his ballhawking last year and should be a much improved performer this year...He's a southpaw and had some trouble earlier in last season going to his right...While at Providence, he excelled scholastically as well as in basketball...He majored in Economics and was treasurer of his senior class and named to the Who's Who honor rol of American Colleges...As a sophmore, he was named to the Eastern College Athletic Conference first team...As a junior, to the NIT 1st team, to the All-New England first team and won honorable mention on the Catholic All-American squad...In his senior year, he was named to the first team of Look Magazine, Catholic Digest, Helms Foundation, SPORTING NEWS, and the second All-American squads of both the Associated Press and United Press International...He won MVP awards in both the NIT and the East-West All-Star game (sharing the latter awar with Jerry West)...He received the Stein Memorial Trophy given each year for the best basketball player in the New England area...He had a 14.9 mark as a sophmore; 15.6 as a junior and 14.2 as a senior, gettir 1,193 points in 80 college games for anoverall 14.9 mark...He attended Boys High in Brooklyn, N.Y. (alma mater of Si Green)...Noted as an outstanding defensive player.

WOODROW SAULDSBERRY JR.

WOODY
Slingshot

AGE: 27
HGT: 6-7
WGT: 225
BORN: July 11, 1934 in Winnsboro, Louisiana
Residing in St. Louis, Missouri
College: Texas Southern University from 1953 to 1955

Acquired by the Hawks from Philadelphia last October 10, 1960, in exchange for Ed Conlin and cash, the flashy Sauldsberry was one of the most welcome additions to the Hawks in recent years...Although he didn't have a spectacular regular season, he was sensational in the playoffs scoring 164 points in 12 games for a 13.7 mark...And he was responsible for the Hawks edging Los Angeles in the Western final playoffs...One of the great defensive stars in court history, Woody was assigned to guard the other team's top forward and did a superlative job all year...He held Elgin Baylor to 336 points in 12 games for a 28.0 avg - well below Baylor's regular season avg of 34.8 per game...In fact, Elgin averaged 36.1 vs the other six clubs...Woody averaged 21.9 minutes a game during the regular season and 36 minutes a game in the playoffs. ..He was fourth in rebounds on the club despite his limited play...The possessor of a spectacular jump shot that has straight trajectory, he was dubbed Slingshot by the Hawks fans in a contest conducted during the regular season...Woody came to the Hawks overweight, then earned $1000 from owner Ben Kerner for trimming down 10 pounds in 12 days...This is his fifth season in the NBA, and he sports a 11.5 per game mark in 282 contests on 3245 points...He broke in the NBA with the Warriors in 1957-58 after spending two years with the Harlem Globetrotters...In his 1st season with the Warriors, he finished second in rebounding to Neil Johnston, then the club's big horse...He also won Rookie of the Year honors in the NBA...Born in Louisiana, he grew up in California where he learned to play basketball at an early age...He attended Compton (Calif) High School where he won two letters, in his junior and senior years, in basketball and track...He ran the 440 and 880 but admits that he was only fair...His school compiled a court win streak of 63 in a row while he was a varsity squad member...They won the California Interscholastic Federation title when he was a junior and were runner-up in his senior year...Woody was named to the All-CIF team in both his junior and senior years...And he was All-City as a senior...He played center in high schoo ...Woody attended Texas Southern U. leaving after his sophmore year to join the Trotters...He led Texas Southern to the semi-finals of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics tourney, in Kansas City in 1955 but his close lost to Gustave Adolphus, the eventual winners...He was named to the All-America NAIA First Team and the AP and UP Small College All-American team that year...TSU also won the Negro college title that year (1955)...He scored 126 points in 10 games vs the Warriors last year for his per-team mark, 12.6 per game...He seems to do his best against his old mates...Outside of Bill Russell who made defense a houseworld in pro basketball, Sauldsberry rates as one of the two or three greatest defensive players in the game's long history... He is married to the former Yvonne Avant, and they have a son, Woodrow III, age three...

JOE GRABOSKI

AGE: 31 Grabo
HGT: 6-8
WGT: 228
Born: January 15, 1930, at Chicago, Illinois
Residence: Brentwood, Missouri (near St. Louis)
Did not attend college as he signed pro contract after High School graduation

The Hawks gained front-line strength in August, 1961, when Garbo was obtained from the Philadelphia Warriors in a trade for Frank Radovich and an undisclosed amount of money...In checking the tenure of pro basketball players, Graboski and Dolph Schayes of Syracuse are the "oldest" from the standpoint of experience, as each is now entering his 14th season of play...Even at the age of 31, big Joe remains the junior of many of his NBA contemporaries...In 1944 he completed his grammar school studies and stood "only" six-feet-four...A four-year letterman while performing at Tuley High School on the Northwest side of Chicago, graduating in 1948...Standing a skinny 6'8", he passed up college offers to sign a pro contract with the Chicago Stags of the now defunct Basketball Association of America...Grabo was among the 25 players who reported to Chicago's pre-season camp and he survived all cutoffs by being retained as the 11th member of the club...He jumped the BAA in 1950 to sign with Kansas City of the National Pro Basketball League, but two months after the 1950-51 schedule opened, the K.C. Highsports folded...Next he went to the Louisville Aluminumites to finish that same campaign, and then became the property of the Indianapolis Olympians in mid-1951. After two winters with Indianapolis, his contract was purchased by Philadelphia as the Olympians also folded...Grabo played eight seasons for the Warriors prior to joining the Hawks...Excluding the 1950-51 season as no records are available, Grabo has seen action in 807 games with NBA rivals over a 12-year career...The versatile front-liner has scored a total of 9,087 points for an overall average of 11.3 per contest...In addition, his 36-game playoff output reveals 386 markers for a 10.9 medial...He was particularly effective against the Hawks, and in the past six years Joe tallied 585 points in 53 tilts against his new teammates for a 11.0 average, mostly in relief roles...He made but two starts against the Hawks in the past four years, yet both were on the border of being sensational...On Feb. 11, 1960, at Philadelphia, he replaced an ailing Wilt Chamberlain in the initial lineup and responded with 36 points in 32 minutes... Then on Dec. 16, 1960, at Detroit, he started a second time, pumping in 24 points in 31 minutes...Grabo had his best year with the Tribe in 1958-59, contributing 1,058 points in 72 games for a 14.7 mark...He played a major part in 1955-56 when Philly won the World Championship, reaching the 1,034-point level and a percentile of 14.4 per match...Despite his height, Grabo has long been one of the most mobile of the big men...He possesses an outstanding two-hand set shot, he can go quickly on the fast break, switch to the pivot and drive with the best—just some of the attributes that tell the secret of his playing longevity...Also regarded as a fine defensive player, Joe is considered a good golfer and has played courses on almost every continent on the globe...He also is quite a fisherman, and after completing each NBA season, he and his wife, the former Martha Carson of Havertown, Pa., head for Marathon, Florida, located in the Keys...There they fish for two solid weeks, and last year Joe hauled in his "biggest catch" to date--a 43-pound sailfish which battled 45 minutes before being overcome by Joe's hook...Grabo also is a scuba diver, learning this skill from his sister Ann who is a scuba diving instructor in Chicago's YWCA...Joe and wife "Marty" were married on Halloween night in 1957 and they have one son, Joey, and one daughter, Linda...According to their doctor, little Joey is expected to be a future prospect in basketball because his probable height will be at least 6-4 or better in about 15 years...

FRED LaCOUR

AGE: 23 Fabulous Freddy
HGT: 6-4½
WGT: 200
Born: February 7, 1938, in San Francisco, California
Residence: San Francisco, California
College: University of San Francisco from 1956 to 1960

The third draft choice of the Hawks in April of 1960, LaCour was a capable and consistent reserve in his 1960-61 rookie season...He played in 55 league games and contributed 309 points during his limited action on the court...Developed rapidly into an accurate shooter, making 41.7 per cent of his floor shots and 74.1 per cent at the foul line...In 13 of the 55 games he finished with a double-figure total in scoring...He was a high school All-American at St. Ignatius High School in San Francisco and picked up the nickname there of Fabulous Freddy, which he has borne ever since...At the North-South All-Star High School cage game in 1956 at Murray, Kentucky, LaCour made 19 points and was honored as the Most Valuable Player in the prep classic...A slick ballplayer with any number of polished offensive moves, his best offensive weapon is a jump shot with either hand...He is an expert faker who already is as good as anyone in the league in this department...In both his sophomore and junior seasons at the Univ. of San Francisco he was a 3rd team All-American...Fred did not play in his senior year...As a soph he led the Dons to a 25-2 record and was the team's number two scorer with a 12.4 average...He netted 30 points in one game during his junior year to establish a record for the new USF gym...He only played the second half of the 1958-59 season at USF, yet led his teammates with a 17.1 medial- the highest figure recorded at USF since Bill Russell left to become a star for the Celtics...Fred joins Russell, K. C. Jones, and Mike Farmer in the pro ranks...Some of Fred's fellow mates on the 1956 High School All-American team included Jack Moreland of Detroit and Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati...He played amateur ball in 1960 with the San Francisco Allen Investors of the National Industrial Basketball League, and in 27 games he placed fourth among the leaders with 626 points and a 23.2 average...Fred had 227 field goals and 172 free throws, and in addition, he was a top candidate for rookie-of-the-year honors there until school studies interrupted his play...He attended USF but didn't play varsity ball as a senior...Started getting interested in basketball after sustaining a broken arm while a youngster and needed a sport to help regain the strength in his ailing arm...Fred likes modern jazz, and he is single.

RON HORN

AGE: 23
HGT: 6-7
WGT: 220
Born: May 24, 1938 at Marion, Indiana
Residing in Gas City, Indiana
College: University of Indiana from 1957 to 1959 (two years)

The Hawks' second draft choice last spring, while still in service, Horn may well be the surprise of the season...A rugged performer who could be the workhorse the Hawks have been seeking for sometime, Horn enters pro ball with an almost legendary service reputation...He first started playing basketball while attending fourth grade in Gas City... Most members of his family are over six feet tall...His father, Paul, is 6-5½; moth, Wanda, is six feet even; older brother, Basil, is 6-8; younger, brother, Eddie, age 12, is 6-1; sister, Marsha, 18, is six feet and he also has a couple of twin sisters, Connie and Bonnie, who are in the third grade...Horn says his brother Basil was "as twice as good as me" but a heart condition eliminated him from any further basketball competition....Attended Mississinewa high school in Gas City, and was named to Indiana's All-State teams three straight years...He was also a football All-Stater while playing quarterback and end...His high school team advanced to semifinals of state court tourney in 1957 before losing to Muncie Central of Indianapolis...They finished with a 27-2 record...He graduated in 1957...He entered Indiana in 1957 to major in Physical Education and played on the Hoosier's freshmen team, moving up the varsity the following year...He was a starter in three-fourtsh of the games teaming up with Walter Bellamy (Chicago Packers first draft choice this year)...He averaged 12 points a game...Dropped out of summer school in 1959 and entered army for two-year enlistment. ..He eventually was sent to the Presidio of San Francisco, Calif. and played two seasons of service basketball as a member of the All-Army and Presidio base clubs...While in service, he averaged almost 100 games a season hence the lengthy pro schedule will mean little to him. ..He was named to the All-Army and All-Service first teams both years. ..His field goal accuracy in service was 51.3 for 203 games and he connected on 81.3 of his charity tosses...Each season, his base club lost only one game, to the famed AAU San Francisco Olympic club...He played with the All-Army team in the U.S. Olympic trials in Denver in 1960 where the Hawks' scouting force held their annual meeting a few days before the yearly NBA draft...Then, he was tabbed as a top choice for this year...This year, he was named the MVP in the annual Las Vegas AAU Invitational Tourney despite his team finishing third in a field of six clubs...His service career shows 27 points a game and a per-game retrieve mark of 25.3 rebounds...Was discharged last July 25 and worked with the Hawks clinical team the past of the summer...He is married to the former Janet Reynolds, his high school sweetheart, and they have three boys, Terry, age 4; Brett, age 2, and Ronald Scott, born September 10...
